

FALL INTERROPS TESTIMONY AT TRIAL

DAWES ALSO AFFECTED BY NYE DEMAND

Regular Republicans Believe Lowden Will Declare for Conservatives
MUST MAKE HIS CHOICE
Both Dawes and Lowden May Be Driven from Camp of Insurgent Group

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1927 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The most significant development in the national political situation this week is the speech of Senator Nye of North Dakota, virtually calling on former Governor Lowden of Illinois, to align himself with the radical and insurgent Republicans on issues other than the McNary-Haugen bill as a test of whether he is acceptable to western Republicans.

And what was said to Mr. Lowden is aimed also at Vice President Dawes, who is generally believed to be an even stronger candidate in certain middle western states than is Mr. Lowden. The regular Republicans are chuckling over the development because it means that many of them who really like Mr. Lowden and who want to see him in the conservative camp think that when he does issue a pronouncement of his political views they will be found to coincide more closely with those of President Coolidge and eastern Republicans than with those of Senators Nye or Norris. Some of the regulars who have been strong for Mr. Coolidge in spite of the I-do-not-choose-to-run statement see in the Nye speech a sign that the Lowden-Dawes boom may be ground beneath the upper millstone of radical Republicanism and the nether millstone of conservative Republican influence. In other words, any speech by Mr. Lowden which may forfeit the support of the west would make him stronger with the east but would not satisfy those elements in the party which do not think the Republican platform should embrace any McNary-Haugenism.

MAY FORCE CHOICE
The upshot of it all may be that both Messrs. Lowden and Dawes will find themselves driven out of the insurgent Republican camp altogether unless they are willing to accept either parts of the insurgent program which it is confessed they believe neither would be willing to do.

If Messrs. Lowden and Dawes lose their western support from the radical states, the race will be between regular conservatives who think they can win eastern electoral votes as well as those from the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast states.

The speech by Mr. Nye may well prove the turning point in the Republican situation, either forcing Messrs. Lowden and Dawes to come out with their eastern colleagues abandoning the McNary-Haugen group, or persuading the eastern party men that they must choose Coolidge, Hughes or Hoover and depend on an electoral combination of the far west and east.

SPIRITS TOLD HIM TO PAINT UNKNOWN REALM

London—(AP)—Heinrich Mussien says mediums told him to paint. In three months he has painted more than 200 canvases and has them on exhibition at the Alpine gallery. He says he has clairvoyant contact with the living and the dead and has a canvas message to deliver to the world.

COUNCIL DEBATES STREET FOREMEN IN EACH WARD OF CITY

Alderman Callahan's Proposal Arouses Sharp Discussion in Council Meeting

KELLER DENOUNCES UNKEPT PROMISES OF OFFICE SEEKERS

Can't Have Public Improvements Without Taxes,
Municipal Clerks Told

What Benjamin Franklin would see if he were alive today was described by L. Hugo Keller, Appleton attorney, in an address before the annual meeting of the Town, Village and City Clerks' association of Outagamie county at the courthouse Thursday morning. Mr. Keller told of the fine roads, the system of caring for widows, aged, crippled, blind and other unfortunate, splendid public buildings and other public works which cost a great deal of money. He denounced the politicians who promise to reduce taxes without knowing whether they could. He pointed out that all these benefits were derived because of taxes and he said many politicians used the tax reduction promise as a method of getting into office.

"You cannot have splendid public buildings and all the facilities and conveniences of this modern age if taxes are greatly reduced," Mr. Keller told the clerks.

A. G. Busch, county highway commissioner, talked on county highway adjustments to towns, villages and cities and explained how they were made. He also explained the method of apportioning the gasoline tax to various districts.

School reports as given by clerks was the subject of an address by A. G. Menting, county superintendent of schools. He also told how school allotments were made to the various districts. There were approximately 30 clerks at the meeting.

Following the business session, a dinner was served at Conway hotel. After the dinner an address was given by Judge Charles D. Rosa of the Wisconsin Tax commission who talked on "Duties of Local Clerks." Judge Fred V. Heinemann was toastmaster.

COUNCIL DEBATES ON STREET FOREMEN

though someone is trying to secure a job for someone else in his ward."

Under Alderman Callahan's plan each ward foreman would have charge of six or eight men or as many as would be needed for the work in that ward. Each foreman would have a small toolbox and equipment for street work. The foreman would give out orders from the street commissioner to whom they would be responsible.

Alderman Steinhauer said it would not be necessary to have a foreman in each ward. He said the city should be divided into four districts with a foreman at the head of each district. He said the wards are not large enough to warrant the expenditure necessary under Callahan's plan.

Two applications for water mains, one on E. Harrison-st and the other on Bennett-st were granted. A contract for constructing 300 feet of sewer on Brewster-st was awarded to the J. Wilson company of Appleton for $354.

An ordinance which would extend the fire limits of the city to the commercial and light manufacturing districts was referred to the ordinance committee and ordered published.

Two ordinances which would permit minor repairs to be made on the buildings now established but which are not in local business districts were referred to the city plan commission. Under the present laws a store whose property is not in a business district is not permitted to make repairs to its building. Under the proposed law he will be able to make repairs or changes, providing he does not change the area of the building or convert it to some other use.

An application by the Miller Posting Service to place a bill board on a vacant lot owned by the city on E. College-ave was referred to the public building and grounds committee.

The council authorized a loan of $25,000 for city finances, increasing the total city loan from banks to $195,000.

Sciatic - Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pains which shoot down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The trouble is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The best way to get relief from the persistent nerve-racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenburh Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced, if not almost banished, all pain and soreness. Continue faithfully and in a reasonable time you should be able to work and rest in comfort once again. Votet's Drug Store keeps Allenburh Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.

SHERWOOD MAN PAYS FOR BREAKING SALOON WINDOW

The charges of destroying property preferred against Paul Aptz, Sherwood, were dropped when he settled for a large plate glass window in the soft drink parlor of Edward Dewall, Black Creek, which he broke about 11:45 Tuesday night by hurling a wine bottle through it. Dewall told Sheriff Otto Zuehlke two young men had entered his place of business and demanded something "hard to drink."

When they didn't get what they wanted they left the saloon and as they drove away in their car one of the men hurled the bottle through the window. Mr. Dewall chased the car and secured the license number, which had been issued to Aptz. A warrant was issued for Aptz's arrest but was not served when Dewall withdrew his charges after the latter paid for the damage.

WARN MOTORISTS TO WATCH SAFETY SIGNS

Police Instructed to Arrest
Motorists Speeding by School Houses

A warning was issued Wednesday morning by George T. Prim, chief of police, to disregarding safety signs placed near schools that unless more precaution is exercised there will be accidents. Chief Prim said police officers have been instructed to arrest motorists who disregard safety signs at schools and they will be charged with reckless driving or speeding.

"Motorists must remember children are irresponsible and great care and caution should be taken when driving in the vicinity of school buildings," Chief Prim said. "The safety signs are put up to warn drivers they are near a school and they should not be ignored."

Chief Prim said drivers on S. Cherry-st especially are ignoring the safety signs there. The intersection of Cherry-st and Fifth-st is especially dangerous because many children cross there and traffic is heavy.

VERY LITTLE CONTAGION IN COUNTY'S SCHOOLS

Several cases of chicken pox were reported to Miss Mary Kline, county nurse, Tuesday. This is the first report of contagious diseases in the county since the opening of school, Miss Kline said, and there is little fear that the disease will spread. Despite the report of diphtheria in Appleton, Miss Kline said, there is not a single case in the county outside of the cities.

LETTER CONDEMNS BOARD'S SECRECY

Conservation Commission Is Crititized for Holding Star
Chamber Meeting

Madison—(P)—In an open letter to William Maubue, Fond du Lac, chairman and E. M. Dahalberg, Ladysmith, secretary of the state conservation commission, Fred L. Holmes, Madison newspaper man today answered the commission's resolution criticizing a statement carried in newspapers served by Mr. Holmes that Louis P. Nagler has been selected conservation director at a meeting some time before the one at which the appointment was announced.

Mr. Holmes answered the charge that the story was a misrepresentation of the acts of the commission by pleading that the meetings of the commission be opened to the press.

"For any inaccuracies that may appear in the press concerning the acts of your body, the commission is to blame," the letter said. "You have never had a public meeting at which the press had access," the answer then stated that the industrial commission department of markets, board of regents of state schools and other state commissions and bodies have open sessions, and predicted that continuation of the conservation body's policy of closed sessions "will ultimately lead to disaster."

The letter said in part: "At the conclusion of your secret sessions a written statement is given out by you announcing what you want the public to know. But the public wants to know more. It wants to know what you are talking about, how you as individuals vote on important public matters and how you are planning on spending the state's money. We want to see for ourselves."

M'HARG TRACES STORY OF CIVILIZATION

Tracing the development of the country from primitive civilization, Professor J. B. Louis Peeke, Fond du Lac, new district governor of the Wisconsin Upper Michigan Kiwanis clubs, was a guest at the meeting. Mr. Peeke, who formerly was lieutenant governor of the district, succeeded J. L. Johns of Appleton.

Proof Positive In 20 Seconds if you have "Acid Mouth" a Cause of Halitosis

A new RED liquid preparation, known as Semafor, now, for the first time, proves effective action to you visibly.

Hold it in your mouth and gargle it for 20 seconds. If the mouth is acid the color of Semafor will change from red to white.

Repeat the rinsing until Semafor stays red. That is proof (chemically positive) that your mouth is neutral, sweet and clean.

If repeated rinsings do not come out red there is some deep-seated trouble on which a dentist or a doctor should advise.

Thus Semafor shows undecayed or "acid mouth," decayed food between the teeth and other causes of unpleasant breath—and removes them.

Semafor is a development by Dr. Alfred Kropff, B. S., M. A., Ph. D. It is patented and can't be duplicated.

It is one of the best ways to whiten teeth. For Semafor aids greatly in removing yellow film.

It helps also to make gums beautifully firm and pink by stimulating healthy circulation. Dentists everywhere are recommending it because it shows the mouth's condition.

It never fails. You can depend on it. That is its big feature. It takes the guessing out of personal hygiene.

State Offers Bargain To Joint Owners Of Autos

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's department of state is not to become involved in any dispute between husband and wife as to who is boss of a jointly owned automobile.

Opportunity to become a party to such a family quarrel has arisen out of the administration of a law passed by the last legislature which requires that all persons who drive a car must take out a driver's license by Jan. 1, 1928. To owners of cars, the license is issued free, but for drivers who do not own one there is a fee of 25 cents.

The question on which the automobile license division of the department of state has been compelled to rule was: When a car is owned jointly by man and wife, which one gets the free license and which one pays the 25 cent fee? At first the problem was adroitly side-stepped by a decision that the one whose name appeared on the certificate of ownership would receive the free license card. This solution, however, would not hold good for cases in which the certificate of ownership was issued in the name of both the husband and wife.

As a compromise, someone in the department suggested that each be issued a driver's license at the reduced rate of twelve and a half cents. The matter of paying the half cent, however, seemed to present some difficulty, so the department will issue a license to both husband and wife at the bargain rate of two for a quarter, in cases in which both names appear on the certificate of ownership. That is, they will be issued on that basis unless the attorney-general's department furnishes them with legal opinion to the contrary.

Thus far, no provision has been made for issuing licenses to back-seat drivers.

SET DATE FOR HEARING ON HORICON MARSH

Madison—(P)—A final hearing on the Horicon marsh proposition will be conducted by the state conservation commission at Horicon the morning of Nov. 2, according to Col. Louis B. Nagler, conservation director-elect.

The commission will hear the arguments of both sides on the question of building a dam at the marsh, and after the hearing further action as to the commission's authority. Mr. Nagler points out that the commission is "authorized" to build a dam, but that it is "distracted" to buy up the forty-thousand acres of marsh land for a game refuge.

OBJECT TO BARN AT THEIR BACK DOORS

Board of Appeals Asked to Reconsider Permit Granted
To Bakery Company

Following complaint of three residents in the neighborhood of the Service Bakery, W. College-ave, against construction of a building to be used as a horse barn for the bakery company, John N. Weiland, building inspector, filed an appeal with the board of appeals requesting that it reconsider the permit and order the work stopped. The board is to meet at 10 o'clock next Monday morning to act on the appeal and work on the structure will be suspended until the board arrives at a decision. The building is being constructed in an alley between S. Locust-st and S. Pierce-ave. The complainants are Herman Peotter, John Heinzkill and George Limpert.

The permit was issued on Oct. 5 and work was started. The building

WRECKING COMPANY DIGS UNDER BIG GRAIN SILOS

Undermining of one of the huge tanks of the old Wisconsin Salt and Grain company at the corner of N. Superior-st and W. Franklin-st has been completed and the tank will be toppled over before Friday. Workmen have cut three of the tanks loose from the remaining six and these will be tripped in the next day or two. The three tanks on the south side of the alley must be removed to enable workmen to pull down the huge brick smoke stack. W. Franklin-st between N. Appleton and N. Superior-sts has been partially closed to keep cars and pedestrians off the street.

Lots Of Moving Here But Houses Are For Rent

Appleton has had its annual share of moving during the past two weeks according to transfer men who say there are few modern houses for rent in this city. Probably the best way of ascertaining the number for rent and the number of persons wanting to rent, is to look in the classified section of a newspaper.

Gone are the days when real estate dealers were anxious to rent out a home to prospective residents in the city or persons wishing a change of residence. The realtors say it is too much trouble except when they get a prospect who wishes to rent until a suitable house can be purchased. For that reason owners of houses for rent must carry on the transaction themselves—and classified advertising representatives declare there are fewer houses than renters.

Those few real estate dealers who still are renting properties report that there are a number of modern

For that reason owners of houses for rent must carry on the transaction themselves—and classified advertising representatives declare there are fewer houses than renters.

Those few real estate dealers who still are renting properties report that there are a number of modern homes for rent but the places are in most cases, too high priced for the average person.

Residents still continue to move however, and during the last few weeks the movers have increased to four to five times the average. Transfer men said that when they usually move four or five families through a month they moved 20 and 25 during the week preceding Oct. 1 and the weeks which have followed. If the weather remains good for another week, many more persons may see fit to move, though the first cold weather and the resulting full coal bin will halt the migration.

Oct. 1 to 15, like May 1, is the signal for nomads to get ready to move to another location. Many leases are dated to Oct. 1 of the year fall due because it is a convenient period for moving if it becomes necessary.

Renting has other problems other than finding a place for rent. Owners

Lots Of Moving Here But Houses Are For Rent

Appleton has had its annual share of moving during the past two weeks according to transfer men who say there are few modern houses for rent in this city. Probably the best way of ascertaining the number for rent and the number of persons wanting to rent, is to look in the classified section of a newspaper.

Gone are the days when real estate dealers were anxious to rent out a home to prospective residents in the city or persons wishing a change of residence. The realtors say it is too much trouble except when they get a prospect who wishes to rent until a suitable house can be purchased. For that reason owners of houses for rent must carry on the transaction themselves—and classified advertising representatives declare there are fewer houses than renters.

Those few real estate dealers who still are renting properties report that there are a number of modern homes for rent but the places are in most cases, too high priced for the average person.

Residents still continue to move however, and during the last few weeks the movers have increased to four to five times the average. Transfer men said that when they usually move four or five families through a month they moved 20 and 25 during the week preceding Oct. 1 and the weeks which have followed. If the weather remains good for another week, many more persons may see fit to move, though the first cold weather and the resulting full coal bin will halt the migration.

Oct. 1 to 15, like May 1, is the signal for nomads to get ready to move to another location. Many leases are dated to Oct. 1 of the year fall due because it is a convenient period for moving if it becomes necessary.

Renting has other problems other than finding a place for rent. Owners

WRECKING COMPANY DIGS UNDER BIG GRAIN SILOS

Undermining of one of the huge tanks of the old Wisconsin Salt and Grain company at the corner of N. Superior-st and W. Franklin-st has been completed and the tank will be toppled over before Friday. Workmen have cut three of the tanks loose from the remaining six and these will be tripped in the next day or two. The three tanks on the south side of the alley must be removed to enable workmen to pull down the huge brick smoke stack. W. Franklin-st between N. Appleton and N. Superior-sts has been partially closed to keep cars and pedestrians off the street.

Renting has other problems other than finding a place for rent. Owners naturally prefer a choice of tenants, and not all who apply for leases are accepted. The house owner desires, in the first place, prompt payment of rents. Secondly, he desires the renter to take reasonably good care of the property, to keep the lawn neat and tidy and to maintain his occupancy so the property will not deteriorate in value at a greater rate than would be the case were the property occupied by the owner himself.

It has been found in most communities, Appleton included, that people who feel such a responsibility move seldom occupy a home for many years if it is their custom to rent rather than own a home.

HODGINS SEEKS TO ENFORCE TRADING STAMP EDICT HERE

City Sealer Describes Efforts by State to End Law Violations

A special effort is being made in cities of Wisconsin, including Appleton, to keep trade free from illegal trading stamp schemes, according to Joseph A. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures. Mr. Hodgins has been asked by the state department of weights and measures to help enforce the trading stamp laws.

A number of city sealers have reported they frequently are asked about various schemes and their relation to the trading stamp law. Some cities even have requested the sealers to inform dealers relative to the law. Some sealers now are sending all questionable schemes to the state office and it has cooperated in stopping those that are illegal.

Places like garages and filling stations where no regular inspection is made by any inspector and usually are a fertile field for trading stamp schemes, according to the state officials.

So many dealers have asked Mr. Hodgins for the exact wording of the section, 134.01, the trading stamp law of Wisconsin, that he has prepared a copy of the law for stock by the public at his office at the stock fair grounds. The law reads:

"Trading stamps; penalty. 'No person, firm, corporation or association within this state shall use, give, offer, issue, transfer, furnish or deliver or cause or authorize to be furnished or delivered to any other person, firm, corporation or association within this state, in connection with the sale of any goods, wares or merchandise, any trading stamp, token, ticket, bond, or other similar device, which shall entitle the purchaser receiving the same to procure any goods, wares or merchandise privilege or thing of value in exchange for any such trading stamp, token, ticket, bond or other similar device, except that any manufacturer, packer or dealer may issue any slip, ticket, or check with the sale of any goods, wares or merchandise, which slip, ticket or check shall bear upon its face a stated cash value and shall be redeemable only in cash for the amount stated thereon, upon presentation in amounts aggregating 25 cents or over of redemption value, and only by the person, firm or corporation issuing the same; provided, that the publication by or distribution through newspapers, or other publications, of coupons in advertisements other than their own shall not be considered a violation of this section.'

"Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction therefor, be punished by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

YOUR QUESTION AND ITS ANSWER

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C. Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: Having noticed your questions and answers in the Post-Crescent, that I'd write stating my case and giving all information which may be of value. I am a single farm hand of twenty-five, and for several years have been troubled quite a bit by what a doctor has termed a "chronic weak back." At times there is a dull ache when I bend slightly, while at other times I must stoop considerably to cause it. While doing very light work the other day there seemed to be a snap in the back, accompanied by a sharp pain. Can you guarantee a cure, if so how long will it take and what will it cost?—H. G. Newald, Wis.

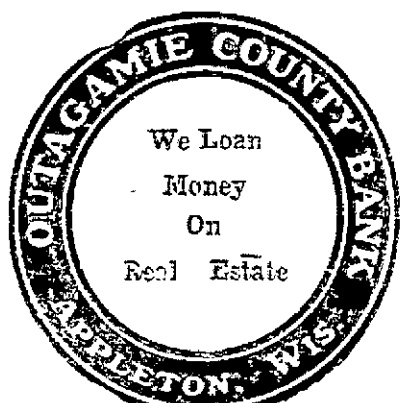

ANSWER: Time required for complete restoration to health depends upon many things, such as general vitality, duration, severity and nature of illness, so that it is impossible to give a definite estimate. The important question is, can you get well? If you find a way to do so the matter of time should not be so important. Assume it required a whole year, the value of health, by far, is worth more than the year's attention. Chiropractic gets at the cause of your trouble, therefore, the prognosis is good in your case.

START GRADING HIGHWAY THROUGH TOWN OF ONEIDA

Grading of County Trunk Y in the town of Oneida was started this week by a repair crew of the county highway department, according to A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner. This road was started last summer but was not completed. It is not passable at present and the highway commission plans to have it ready for use after the first freeze. The road is not graded and cannot be used until it has frozen over. It was not open to traffic this summer because a bridge was being constructed over Pleacon creek. This bridge has been completed.

NEW RADIO STATION TO BROADCAST SOON

Irving Zuelke Co. Station Might Be on the Air Saturday Afternoon

Broadcasting from station WJBR, the Irving Zuelke Music store will begin within the next week according to the officials. The new station will broadcast wave lengths 227.1 meters, and will have a power capacity of 100 kilowatts. Operators recently completed installation of the equipment, and erection of the aerial. For the last few days they have been tuning the station to a point where it will not interfere with reception from outside stations.

Equipment for the new station was purchased several weeks ago by the Zuelke store from persons who formerly operated the station at Omro. An attempt is being made to change the call letters to something more easily identified with the store. It is possible that the station will broadcast the results of Saturday's football games.

RURAL SCHOOLS EAGER FOR MUSIC INSTRUMENTS

That Okauchie-co rural schools are eager to have means of providing music is evidenced in the fact that A. G. Meating, county school superintendent, received more than six applications for an organ which an Appleton woman has offered to the school board which will call for it. Mr. Meating said the Appleton woman called him several days ago saying she would give the organ to any school which would take it away. He sent out a circular letter Tuesday telling the rural teachers of the offer, and Wednesday morning he received six calls from schools which wanted the instrument. He said he expected still more applications.

Mr. Meating said there may be other residents in Appleton or the county who have such musical instruments which they are willing to donate to the schools. He said the teachers and school boards will be glad to receive such instruments.

CLOCK PLAYS MANY TUNES

A clock that plays tunes has just been put on display in London. Every part is hand made and engraved, and only one of its kind in the world. It is a perfect timekeeper, chimes every quarter of the hour on eight bells, and at the hour, after striking, plays one of six tunes on 14 bells, concealed in a gilt wooden box. The tunes are "Auld Lang Syne," "The Blue Bells of Scotland," "Robin Adair," "Callie Herring," a Scotch reel and the Scotch national anthem. The clock was made in Glasgow, and required two years to construct. Some of the parts are minute, and are perfect in detail.

state regent of the organization; Mrs. Alfred Brosseau, of Washington, president general; Mrs. Russell W. Magna, of Washington, financial chairman of the constitutional hall committee and Mayor James H. McGilgan, of Green Bay are among the speakers on the program.

Bank Record Reveals Secrets Of British Court Finances

London—(P)—Letters from kings, queens, princes and eminent statesmen fill the records of the renowned old banking firm of Coutts & Company, just made public for the first time. They reveal some of the romantic history that is being made every day in Lombard street.

The central figure of this business romance is Thomas Coutts, whose personality brought the bank in to connection with aristocracy.

Coutts' personal memorandum book records two loans of £5,000 each to the famous British statesman, Charles James Fox, one Sept. 20, 1787, and the other June 17, 1788. Above the entries in Coutts' own handwriting appears:

"Not to be pressed for, or any interest ever asked for. N. B. Never to be demanded."

On the folio opposite the record of the transaction Coutts also wrote: "Worth nothing."

Coutts, known as the "Court Banker," also wrote:

"I was much in his Majesty's (George III's) confidence, which I never did anything to forfeit, and I never mentioned any circumstance of his affairs to anyone and have left no trace of them behind."

There is a letter from Louis Philippe, dated March 3, 1848, which he wrote on landing at Newhaven after having lost the French throne. It asks for £300.

A draft on Coutts' dated April 25, 1804, brings to mind the amour of George IV, then Prince of Wales, with the beautiful Mrs. Fitzherbert, whom he secretly married, contrary to the constitution. The draft, written by Mrs. Fitzherbert, calls for the payment of £1,000, her quarterly allowance made by the Prince.

A letter from Lord George Gordon, leader of the "No Popery" riots, written in Newgate Prison, is as follows: "Lord George Gordon returns his affectionate respects to Mr. Coutts and thanks him for inquiring after his health, which, I thank God, considering his having been locked up for three years the 11th of this month, is not much affected."

Among Coutts' records is a guinea given by a good-hearted stranger who judged from his shabby appearance that he was "down and out." Coutts asked the stranger to visit him at his home and the philanthropist then discovered his mistake.

Coutts left a fortune of £900,000 when he died.

STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN

Red Cloud, Neb.—A farmer sat in his stalled filver on a railroad track and glowered at the freight train that bore down upon him. There was a shrieking of brakes and the train slid to a stop with the pilot only a foot from his car. When the engineer and fireman clambered down they were not met with expressions of thanks. "What's the matter with you fellows?" demanded the farmer savagely. "Didn't you see me?"

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overindulgence, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat. If you are over stout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

May Have Parent-Teachers Association In New London

New London—The need of a Parent-Teachers association, similar to the organizations of other cities and rural districts, recently has been discussed by parents of school children in New London schools. A movement is on foot to organize an order which would be for the mutual benefit of students, parents and teachers. Meetings would serve as a clearing-house for ideas of parents and for the smoothing out of the difficulties which are sure to arise in every school. The need of an association and ways of organizing and maintaining it have been brought up and various people have expressed their opinions.

Much as to be said for and against the organization, in the opinion of R. J. McMahon, superintendent of city schools. Mr. McMahon said he is inclined to favor the association, provided there is enough interest in it to assure its success.

Ellis N. Calef, former superintendent of the Waupaca County training school in this city, declared that he believed it might work out for mutual benefit of parents and teachers. Mrs. Calef, who is intensely interested in matters pertaining to education, stated that she hoped it might be brought about. "One parent can accomplish so little alone and really dreads repeated calls upon teachers. Surely a general meeting of all concerned where details could be explained would be a decided betterment of conditions where each parent solves the personal problems of her children."

Mrs. George Demming said that it has been her experience that teachers and school heads welcome interest from parents.

"Either complaints from parents or visits actuated simply by the wish for better understanding for affairs of the school are welcomed. However, parents' problems many times are identical, or nearly so, and at these group meetings much time may be saved for all by settling all arguments at once."

Mrs. E. W. Wendland, Mrs. H. P. Freeling, Mrs. W. M. Bede and Mrs. George A. Lee have stated that they have long felt the need of some such organization. Mrs. Freeling, as a former teacher and as the mother of children, maintained a wish for better understanding of school affairs. While Mrs. Wendland and Mrs. Bede recalled the achievements of such associations in towns where they have formerly made their homes. Mrs. Wendland related the power for advertisement which a parent and teachers association had made in the town of Kingston, while Mrs. Bede drew a comparison, showing the steps toward clearer understanding and closer relations created by the same order in her former city home in West Orange, N. J.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

BADGER FARMERS GET 'BACK ON THEIR FEET'

Real Estate Dealers Told
Farm Prices Are Way

Manitowish—(P)—Wisconsin is "back" with both feet planted on solid ground and it is up to all of us to keep it there," R. M. Apker, Chetek, Wis., told agents for the St. Paul Federal Land Bank told Wisconsin Real Estate Association men here today.

The keynote of his address was optimism. He said that the prices Wisconsin farmers are getting for livestock, dairy products, farm products and poultry is "higher than it has been for years" and is way above the pre-war prices.

"The rural cycle has run its course and families are returning to the farm," Mr. Apker said, "after deciding the farm is much more attractive for a place to bring up children, get cheap fuel and cleaner living and independence."

Investigation of dairy prices he has made, comparing those of 1926 and the first nine months of 1927 in the business of Armour and Company and the Barren cooperative creamery, "the largest farmers cooperative creamery in the world," show that:

For 1927, Armour paid 55.95 cents per pound for butter fat in whole milk.

For the first nine months of 1927 Armour paid 60.16.

For the year 1926, Barren paid 45.33 per pound for butter fat in cream.

For the first 9 months of 1927, they paid 50.77 an increase of approximately 10 per cent.

Please bear in mind that the price of butter fat is always higher in the last three months of the year so the actual increase is correspondingly greater than the 10 per cent shown.

"The average sale price in dairy cows is approximately eighteen per cent higher than in 1926 and is the highest in history with the exception of the peak of the inflation period. The price of hogs the same. Wisconsin small grain is higher than last year and last year was the best since the deflation period. I find the farmer who attends to his business with the same personal attention to details that any other business must exercise has made and saved money all through these times."

CANDYMEN MEET HERE

Candy distributors of the Fox River valley and Manitowish and Sheboygan will meet at 6:30 at the Conway hotel Friday evening. The dinner will be given in the Gold room. About 30 are expected to be present.

Edward Boettcher, Milwaukee, a civil engineer in the employ of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad was in Appleton Wednesday making a survey of track sites in the St. Paul yards.

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have hollow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. Change Name Of Registrar Office At Wisconsin "U"

Madison—(P)—Most colleges and universities have a registrar's office. The University of Wisconsin has one but it is soon to be changed to the "bureau of educational records and guidance," and besides doing the regular registrar's work it is to conduct a service not dissimilar from that of the new Experimental College.

Its duty is defined as "feeling the university's educational pulse," one of the purposes awarded for it by President Glenn Frank at the time of its conception.

Under the direction of F. O. Holt, registrar and executive director of the

GETTLE HONORED BY UTILITY COMMISSIONERS

Dallas, Texas—(P)—Discussions of problems of national import in public utility regulation are contained in reports presented by members of the Wisconsin Railroad Commission before the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners during its session here Oct. 15-21. Lewis E. Gettle, chairman of the Wisconsin commission was elected first vice president of the organization Wednesday morning at the business session.

Progress to make more effective and to improve the laws regulating public utilities has not kept pace with the increasing complexity of new problems created by the great expansion of public utility properties, declared Mr. Gettle in his report.

bureau, and Prof. V. A. C. Heumon, psychology expert and scientific director, a series of tests is being given freshmen to gather material for a study of the possibilities of adjusting university work to the needs of the individual student.

The 120 students who are freshmen in the Experimental College and a larger group of students selected at random from the College of Letters and Science will be given psychological, scholastic aptitude, and high school content examinations.

Later, other groups of freshman students will be tested and achievement tests may be carried on as the year advances to measure the university's efficiency in developing the aptitudes revealed by tests of the students now being given.

Registrar Holt pointed out in announcing the beginning of the scientific program of the bureau that it will fit in with a movement just inaugurated by the City School Superintendents' association of Wisconsin.

At the recent convention of the association in Madison the problem of developing a co-operative program for educational guidance of students was discussed, and the outcome was a request for the appointment of a committee which should include representatives of the superintendents and high school principals of the state, the normal schools, the colleges, and the university. This committee is to study the following topics:

1. The type of literature sent to candidates for admission to institutions of higher learning.
2. The type of admission blanks and information to be presented to colleges, universities, and normal schools concerning the candidates for admission.
3. The possibility of creating a system of guidance and records which, organized in the high school, will be available for a continued guidance for each student who goes on to college.

DIDERRICH TAKES ALDERMAN'S SEAT

Elected to Succeed Pliny
Earle as Second Ward Representative on Council

John R. Diderich, 527 N. Ida-st, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Alderman Pliny Earle of the Second ward, who died about three weeks ago, on the first formal ballot at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening. Alderman R. P. McGillan was absent and there were but 10 votes cast. Of this number Mr. Diderich received 6 and Orrin Earle received 4.

On the first informal ballot Mr. Diderich received 4 votes, Mr. Earle received 2, Walter Pluman, 2, Herman Withagen, 1, and one was blank. A petition signed by 25 taxpayers and voters of the Second ward asked the council to elect Mr. Diderich. He will hold office until next April when the citizens of the ward will elect a representative at the regular election. Alderman Earle's term would not have expired until April, 1929, but under the state law, his successor holds office only until the next election.

LEVITAN SAYS SPEECHES WON'T HELP FARMERS

Milton, Wis.—(P)—State Treasurer Solomon Levitan said here Wednesday night that "it is time for all factions to get together and put into effect a practical farm relief measure."

His speech, before the Milton Civics club, was largely against "speech-making as a solution of the farm problem."

"Because the agricultural problem

Don't Squeeze Blackheads

—Dissolve Them

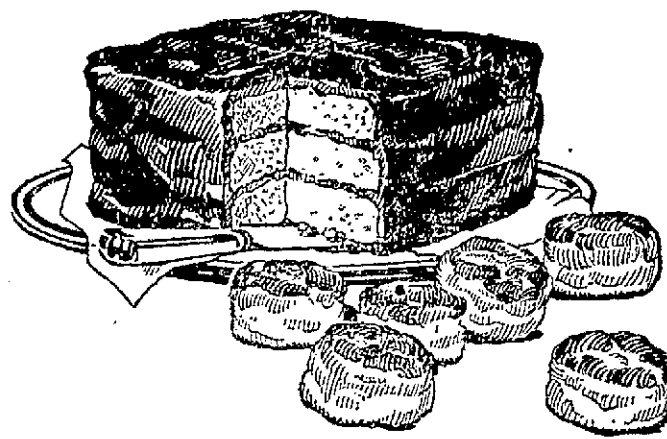

Squeezing out blackheads makes large, ugly pores. The safe and sane way to get rid of these blemishes is dissolve them. Get two ounces of Calomel powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and every one, big or little, will disappear at once. adv.

is so vital to the nation, each political faction wants to claim the glory of solving it, with the result that efforts of every faction are brought to naught by self-seeking," he said.

"There have been a good many constructive ideas expressed relative to farm relief, if they would but pass the stage of being ideas only. A United States Senator has suggested making the farmer's market a seller's market, instead of a buyer's market and has expressed his intention of offering a definite farm relief measure on this line to be dealt with by Congress.

"A plan designed to guard against the production of surplus crops rather than to deal with surpluses after they are on the market, has been suggested. There is no dearth of ideas but there is a seeming inability to get together and to use the best of them for the common good. I still have hopes that some tangible help will come to the aid of the farmers, and I pray it may come soon."

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 While Vance is at breakfast in his fashionable bachelor apartment, Markham drops in on him and informs him that Alvin Benson has been murdered. Because of his keen interest in criminology, Vance accompanies Markham to the scene of the crime.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER II
 As we passed through the massive carved-oak front door into the main hallway, we were met by Assistant District Attorney Dinwiddie, a serious, swarthy young man with prematurely lined face, whose appearance gave one the impression that most of the woes of humanity were resting upon his shoulders.

"Good morning, Chief," he greeted Markham, with eager relief. "I'm damned glad you've got here. This case'll rip things wide open. Cut and dried murder, and not a lead."
 At that moment a tall, massive, middle-aged man with a pink complexion and a closely-cropped white mustache, appeared in the doorway of the living room. On seeing Markham he came forward stiffly with outstretched hand. I recognized him at once as Chief Inspector O'Brien, who was in command of the entire police department. Dignified greetings were exchanged between him and Markham, and then Vance and I were introduced to him. Inspector O'Brien gave us each a curt, silent nod, and turned back to the living-room, with Markham, Dinwiddie, Vance and myself following.

The room, which was entered by a wide double door about ten feet down the hall, was a spacious one, almost square, and with high ceilings. Two windows gave on the street; and on the extreme right of the north wall, opposite to the front of the house, was another window opening on a paved court. To the left of this window were the sliding doors leading into the dining-room at the rear.

The room presented an appearance of garish opulence. About the walls hung several elaborately framed paintings of race-horses and a number of mounted hunting trophies. A highly-colored oriental rug covered nearly the entire floor. In the middle of the east wall, facing the door, was an ornate fireplace and carved marble mantel. Placed diagonally in the corner on the right stood a walnut upright piano with copper trimmings. Then there was a mahogany bookcase with glass doors and figured curtains, a sprawling tapestried davenport, a squat Venetian tabouret with inlaid mother-of-pearl, a teakwood stand containing a large brass samovar, and a built-topped center table nearly six feet long. At the side of the table nearest the hallway, with its back to the front windows, stood a large wicker lounge chair with a high, fan-shaped back.

In this chair reposed the body of Alvin Benson.

Though I had served two years at the front in the World War and had seen death in many terrible gulches, I could not repress a strong sense of revulsion at the sight of this murdered man.

Benson's body was reclining in the chair in an attitude so natural that one almost expected him to turn to ask us why we were intruding upon his privacy. His head was resting against the chair's back. His right leg was crossed over his left in a position of comfortable relaxation. His right arm was resting easily on the center-table and his left arm lay along the chair's arm. But that which most strikingly gave his attitude its appearance of naturalness, was a small book which he held in his right hand with his thumb still marking the place where he had evidently been reading.

He had been shot through the forehead from in front; and the small circular bullet mark was now almost black as a result of the coagulation of the blood.

He was attired in an old smoking-jacket and red felt bed-room slippers, but still wore his dress trousers and evening shirt, though he was collarless, and the neck band of the shirt had been unbuttoned as if for comfort. He was not an attractive man physically, being almost completely bald and more than a little stout. His face was flabby, and the puffiness of his neck was doubly conspicuous without its confining collar. With a slight shudder of distaste I ended my brief contemplation of him, and turned to the other occupants of the room.

Two burly fellows with large hands and feet, their black felt hats pushed far back on their heads were minutely inspecting the iron grill-work over the front windows. Another man, of medium height and dapper appearance, with a small blond mustache, was bending over in front of the grate, looking intently, so it seemed, at the dusty gas-pipe. On the far side of the table a thickset man in blue serge and a derby hat, stood with arms akimbo scrutinizing the silent figure in the chair. His eyes, hard and pale blue, were narrowed, and his square jaw was rigidly set. He was gazing with rapt intensity at Benson's body, as though he hoped, by the sheer power of concentration, to probe the secret of the murder.

Another man, of unusual mien was standing before the rear window, with a jeweler's magnifying glass in his eye, inspecting a small object held in the palm of his hand. From pictures I had seen of him I knew he was Captain Carl Hagedorn, the most famous fire-arms expert in America. He was a large, cumbersome, broad-shouldered man of about 50; and his black shiny clothes were several sizes too large for him. His coat hitched up behind, and in front hung half way down to his knees; and his trousers were baggy and lay over his ankles in grotesquely comic folds. His head was round and abnormally large, and his ears seemed sunken into his skull. His mouth was entirely hidden by a scraggly, grey-shot mustache, all the hairs of which grew downward. Captain Hagedorn had been connected with the New York police department for 30 years, and though his appearance and manner were ridiculed at headquarters, he was profoundly respected. His word on any point pertaining to firearms and gunshot wounds was accepted as final by headquarters men.

In the rear of the room, near the dining-room door, stood two other men talking earnestly together. One was Inspector William M. Moran, commanding officer of the detective bureau; the other, Sergeant Ernest Heath of the homicide bureau, of whom Markham had already spoken to us.

As we entered the room in the wake of Chief Inspector O'Brien, everyone ceased his occupation for a moment and looked at the district attorney in a spirit of uneasy, but respectful, recognition. Only Captain Hagedorn, after a cursory squint at Markham, returned to the inspection of the tiny object in his hand, with an abstracted unconcern which brought a faint smile to Vance's lips.

Inspector Moran and Sergeant Heath came forward with stolid dignity; and after the ceremony of hand-shaking, Markham introduced Vance and me, and briefly explained our presence. The inspector bowed pleasantly to indicate his acceptance of the intrusion, but I noticed that Heath ignored Markham's explanation, and proceeded to treat us as if we were non-existent.

Inspector Moran was a man of different quality from the others in the room. He was about 60, with white hair and a brown mustache, and was immaculately dressed. He looked more like a successful Wall Street broker of the better class than a police official.

"I've assigned Sergeant Heath to the case, Mr. Markham," he explained in a low, well-modulated voice. "It looks as though we were in for a bit of trouble before it's finished. Even the chief inspector thought it warranted his lending the moral support of his presence to the preliminary rounds. He has been here since 8 o'clock."

Inspector O'Brien had left us immediately upon entering the room and now stood between the front windows, watching the proceedings with a grave, indecipherable face.

"Well, I think I'll be going," Moran added. "They had me out of bed at breakfast yet. I won't be needed any way now that you're here. Good-morning!" And again he shook hands. When he had gone Markham turned to the assistant district attorney.

"Look after these two gentlemen, will you, Dinwiddie? They're babes in the wood, and want to see how these affairs work. Explain things to them while I have a little confab with Sergeant Heath."

Dinwiddie accepted the assignment eagerly. I think he was glad of the opportunity to have someone to talk to by way of venting his pent-up excitement.

As the three of us turned rather instinctively toward the body of the murdered man—he was, after all, the hub of this tragic drama—I heard Heath say in a sullen voice: "I suppose you'll take charge now, Mr. Markham."

Dinwiddie and Vance were talking together, and I watched Markham with interest after what he had told us of the rivalry between the police department and the district attorney's office.

Markham looked at Heath with a slow gracious smile, and shook his head. "No, Sergeant," he replied. "I'm here to work with you, and I want that relationship understood from the outset. In fact, I wouldn't be here now if Major Benson hadn't phoned me and asked me to lend a hand. And I particularly want my name kept out of it. It's pretty generally known—and it isn't, it will be—that the major is an old friend of mine; so, it will be better all round if my connection with the case is kept quiet."

Heath murmured something I did not catch, but I could see that he had, in large measure, been placated. He, in common with all other men who were acquainted with Markham, knew his word was good; and he personally liked the district attorney.

"If there's any credit coming from this affair," Markham went on, "the police department is to get it, therefore I think it best for you to see the reporters. ... And by the way," he added good-naturedly, "if there's any blame coming, your fellows will have to bear that, too."

"Fair enough," assented Heath. "And now, Sergeant, let's get to work," said Markham.

STATE AGENTS VISIT HORICON MARSH LAND

Part of Swamp Already Available for Restoration as Hunters' Paradise

Horicon—(P)—Eight miles of the Horicon Marsh were inspected by the conservation commission, representatives of the attorney general's office, members of the legislature and others. The inspection tour was in connection with the measure sponsored in the 1927 legislature by Senator William H. Markham to restore the Horicon marsh.

Representatives of the attorney general's office intimated that the state will not be required to purchase that land which was heretofore covered by navigable water, prior to the private drainage. It was stated that this land is being held in trust by the state for the people of Wisconsin, and therefore purchase will be unnecessary.

The commission held hearings today, both at Fond du Lac and Horicon, concerning the marsh. Those present for the sessions included Elmer Hall, acting conservation director; Louis B. Nagler of Madison, secretary appointed director; Matt Patterson, Madison; Senator Markham, Louis Radke, Horicon; H. S. Berndt, Dr. W. C. Wise, Atty. Alfred Sutherland, Fond du Lac, Charles Houghton, Sheboygan, and Arthur W. Kade, Sheboygan.

At its Fond du Lac meetings the conservation commission adopted a resolution declaring "false and unfounded" a story printed by a Madison newspaper that Mr. Nagler had been named conservation director long before the official announcement was made.

Fred L. Holmes, Madison newspaper man, was attacked in the resolution as having made "an unjustified and unwarranted attack upon the honesty, integrity and official conduct of the conservation commission."

Lawrence Loses Hunter, Regular Fullback, For Game With Lake Forest

Wrenched Ankle, Bad Knee Halts Back's Play; Lake Forest Fast and Light

The first serious injury of the season to a Lawrence college football player, one which threatens to hurt the team's play in the important Wisconsin-Illinois conference game with the speedy Lake Forest eleven Saturday at Lake Forest, was reported at Wednesday's practice. Hunter, regular fullback of the team, took a knock on the right knee in practice Tuesday afternoon and at the same time he wrenched an ankle in scrimmage against the Blue Devils. The injured were not thought to be serious. Wednesday morning the injury was so painful that a doctor was called and he is certain to be out of the game for the next week, if not longer. Hunter is a letterman from last season and he had been at fullback in most of the Lawrence games this year.

McFinnis, a quarterback, also is out this week with a leg infection. But he probably will be ready to go Sunday day. With Hunter injured, Humphrey looks to be about the best bet at fullback, though Pierce and Capt. Ott also may be tried. The removal of Ott from his tackle position, where he has been playing stellar ball this season, will weaken a good line however, and it is unlikely that a change will be made. Humphrey is a good plunger, now that his interference, a weak point with the Blues this year, is beginning to function in fair style. He has plenty of speed and when he puts his head down and "plows" he turns in yardage if his mates give him a little help.

Lake Forest, Lawrence's foe Saturday, has a light but fast team, though lacking good subs, as Lawrence. It showed plenty of power last Saturday in holding the strong Ripon eleven to a 0-0 tie. A 156 pound guard and a 137 pound quarter back aren't extraordinarily rare, but when their teammates aren't much bigger. The line averages 160 pounds and the backs 154.

Naturally, with such line crashtime plays which go some place else than the spot they start for. The Gold Coast is doing that, despite the fact the majority of the first string men are sophomores.

Last year the Red Devils played three scoreless ties, won two games, and lost three. They have equaled last year's winning record already, beating Hillsdale college of Chicago 12 to 0, in the first game and Chicago Y college, 6 to 0, in the second. In their third game of the year last Friday they held Ripon to a scoreless tie.

MARTIN PUNTS, PASSES With a good part of the attack built on passing, of course, every back throws and receives the ball. The best of the tossers is Thomas Martin, and what makes him doubly effective on passes from punt formation is that he also does the punting, averaging nearly 50 yards. He's really an exceptional pass thrower, has the ability to gather them in on a dead run, and is a good defensive man.

Martin's running mate at the other half back is John Burk. He was on some teams as all-city quarter back when he played for Parker high school. He's fast and drop kicks well, but his specialty is the kick-off.

The regular quarter back job is open as yet, with Lester Stang and Faust Ferzacco, a freshman, in a nip and tuck argument. Stang, 137 pounds of nerve and fight, is a good open field runner, fair passer and drop kicker, and fast. Ferzacco is a fine prospect, with just a touch of football greenness. Blessed with speed and unusual coordination he darts in and out of holes like a ferret, and he adds to that place kicking, fair passing, punting, and fine drive.

McCALL IS FULL BACK A half back of last year, Kenneth McCall, has been made over into a full back this year. A rugged chap, with powerful legs, he drives hard into the line, and once he gets under way is more than usually shifty in running ends.

Neal Dickson, a 200-pound husky, who has starred at tackle, but was tried out as a full back in the Hillsdale game, where he went over with a bang, is lost to the squad for most of the season.

The essential thing about the line is its lack of weight and the fact the boys try to make up what they lack in beef by aggressiveness. The captain, Roy Bjorklund, has played in every football game since he entered school as a freshman and in all but one or two has been in every minute. He plays guard and weighs 155 pounds.

Bjorklund plays left guard and he's the only senior in the line. He's a slender youth, but open holes with aggressive drive. Donben England, at the other end is a little heavier but a blocker type. He stars on the defense, for, while a play may go over him, it's not likely to get through him. These two guards are the best of the linemen.

Center is still an open question with Herbert Ferner and Peter Mayer working for it. Ferner is the bigger, a reliable passer, and a hard tackler, but not inclined to overwork. Mayer is a scrappy chap, with big, powerful hands, which he uses effectively.

Four more sophomores hold down the wings of the line. George Hageman and Roy Squiers are the tackles. Hageman, aggressive as they make 'em, is strong defensively but green offensively, while Squiers is a youngster, tall, somewhat awkward and powerful, with a lot of bulldog determination to get through.

Charles Rostowski plays left end. Tall and mummy, he grabs off passes easily and is a fair defensive man. He's an excellent drop kicker and can be called back to kick field goals. At the other end is the third of the places still open. Paul Hermy and Phineas Kvalha both want it, with the choice about even. Hermy is a place kicker, receives passes well, and is an excellent defensive man, waving through interferences to get the ball carrier. Kvalha is a short, stocky chap, lighter than Hermy, and not spectacular, but in the game every play.

SEERS ARE SCARCE Safe, as usual, are scarce, but three of them are good ones. Anthony Ros-

STAR BACKFIELD IS FEATURE OF YANKS

Wild Bill Kelly, Bo Molenda, Eddie Tyron, Wes Fry at Bay Sunday

Green Bay—When the New York Yankees step out on the field at the City stadium next Sunday to do battle with the Packers they will have in their lineup a host of stars, some of whom were making great names for themselves in college circles at the same time that their present captain, "Red" Grange was making his reputation at Illinois. And perhaps some of them might have achieved the fame of the Wheaton ice man had not their feats on the gridiron been sidetracked by those of the sorrel-topped Illinois star.

Last season college football circles were amazed at the performances of "Wild Bill" Kelly of Montana. So great were the feats of "Wild Bill" that he was awarded the signal honor of captaining the all-West team in their annual game with the all-East aggregation on New Year's Day at San Francisco. After his graduation from college Kelly was flooded with numerous offers to play pro ball and cast his lot with the Yankees.

In the back line of the invaders will also be Eddie Tyron who gained more than passing fame at Colgate the season before last. Tyron was a member of the varsity team for four seasons because at that time the three year rule had not been put into effect at the Eastern college. During his collegiate career Tyron scored 350 points and 111 of them were accumulated during his final season.

There are also two fullbacks who just a short time ago were considered among the real stars of the Big Ten conference. "Bo" Molenda performed under the direction of Yost at Michigan while Wesley Fry was at the University of Iowa. And beside these Big Ten stars there are several others who played with some of the teams in Major Griffith's circuit. Iowa has another representative in Olson who was on the varsity for three years in 1923-'24 and '26. Illinois has Crawford, a 220-pound lineman who was on the varsity in 1923 and 1924 and who was on the all-Western team in 1923. Hall, another of the Yankee linemen, was on the Illinois teams for two years and before that one year at Butler. And Indiana furnishes Larry Marks, a backfielder who although always playing with a weak team gained considerable of a reputation as a player.

For four years the mainstay of the line of the University of Idaho team was Ray Stephens and so good was his work in 1924 that he was placed on the all-American teams picked by Jones, Rockne and Warner.

Beside Colgate several other eastern colleges have furnished material for Grange's present team. Syracuse boasts of Bayley, a lineman who finished at that school in 1926. Out of Penn State there is Michalskie, a varsity lineman for 3 seasons. And Dartmouth is represented by Maloney who played for 3 seasons his last being 1925. Last season he acted as assistant coach at his Alma Mater.

OLIVER FROM ALABAMA And from the Sunny South is Oliver, who lists his Alma Mater as Alabama the same school which furnished Jones and Perry to the Packers. The west coast has a flock of college men on the Grange team. One is Fritz Kramer, a guard at Washington State college and captain in his last season, 1926. Southern California has Badgro who played end at that school for 3 seasons, last year being on the all-Pacific team. Baker, one of the backs on the Grange team also played at that school for one year and prior to that played two years at the University of Santa Clara. Stanford's only representative is Lawson who played at that school for 3 years and in 1923 and 1924 was a unanimous choice for the all-Pacific team picked by Glen Warner and who in 1924 was on the all-American picked by Warner, Jones and Rockne.

And last but not least is Dick Flaherty's brother Ray who played at Gonzaga along with "Tiny" Cahoon. Last season he played with Wilson's Wildcats in the "Grange" league and was given the berth at end on the all-Professional team. He has been going in great form this year and gives every indication of again being the choice of the experts on the mythical eleven.

Has Served 17 Years Zach Wheat, who was released recently by the Athletics, played in the major leagues since 1910.

Four in Family Betty Nuthall has three younger sisters, each of whom is reputed to be an excellent tennis player for her age.

Says Scott is Good Ted Hayes, former trainer for Jack Dempsey, says Phil Scott should make a good showing as a fighter here.

BAY PACKERS PLAY IN MILWAUKEE OCT. 30

Milwaukee — Green Bay's famous Packers, crack professional football team, will play an exhibition game in Milwaukee, Sunday, Oct. 30, against Johnny Bryan's revamped Ladgers. The Packers were originally scheduled to come here Nov. 13, but when they had an opportunity to secure one of the strongest teams in the east for a game at Green Bay on that date, due to the withdrawal from the National Football league of the Buffalo club, Bryan agreed to advance his

SHEBOYGAN ELEVEN DETERMINED TO WIN

Stollmen, Losers in 2 Valley Games, Out to Wreak Vengeance

Sheboygan—Suffering from two conference defeats, the Sheboygan high school team will go to Appleton Saturday in attempt to wrack vengeance on the title-aspiring Orange eleven. Strenuous practice is on the Sheboygan training schedule for this week and it is expected that the team will be at its best when they meet Coach Shield's warriors. Win or lose, the Red and White are going to carry plenty fight and determination with them when they set out for the College city.

Coach Stoll and his assistants have hardly been satisfied with the showing made by the team thus far and it is going to be do or die with eleven Red and White boys face a like number of Appleton representatives.

Several changes will take place in the Chair lineup. Kampman will be unable to play on account of illness and Abramovitz will take his place at guard. Joe Zaskowski, erstwhile tackle, will be shifted to a halfback berth in an attempt to strengthen that department. In the previous game the Sheboygan offense has been notorious ly weak and some improvement will have to be made to offset the Appleton drive that has carried the Orange to two victories. Zierath will be moved from an end position to take Zaskowski's place at tackle and Zeiler and Captain Kramer will take care of the ends. The rest of the line will not be changed, according to present plans. Malcolm Larson will probably call signals from a quarterback post and the other two members of the backfield will be Fahres and either Prange or Webb.

Coach Shield's Appleton aggregation is also hard at work and is still smarting under the defeat handed them by the East Green Bay team. Fullback Johnson, who wasn't in condition last Saturday, although he played a part of the game, should be fit date as an accommodation to the boys.

This year's Packer outfit is just about the strongest which has ever worn the blue uniforms of the Bay club and the presence in the lineup of Red Dunn, Larvie Dilweg and Dick Flaherty, all of Milwaukee and former Marquette university stars, should make them a real card here a week from Sunday.

College Captains

BENNETT, OF INDIANA Bloomington, Ind.—He does a Red Grange during the summer months, this Chuck Bennett, who is leading the Indiana team by appointment ever so often this year.

Indiana has no captain this year. None is to be elected, but one, sometimes two, is chosen for each game. Because Bennett is the big star, he'll carry the burden often this year.

Bennett, working on an ice wagon here this summer, was physically ready when the grid season started. He is one of those athletes who train the year round and who do not dissipate in any fashion.

He's a junior and played last season for the first time with the varsity. But how he did play his halfback position!

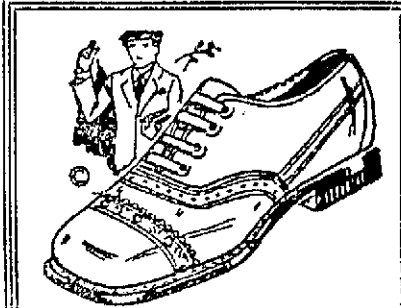

He was selected for all-conference halfback by many experts, and looked so well to others that the prediction was made that he would tack on "All-American" before he quits Indiana.

He is most dangerous in an open field, being fast and shifty, and too elusive a man to tackle properly. He runs the 100, in football togs, in just a fraction above ten seconds.

to go in a few days and the other injured members of the Orange squad are rapidly improving so that Appleton will be able to present its lineup when they clash with the Chairs.

Montreal—Leo (Kid) Roy, Canadian lightweight champion, won from Georges Chabot, Montreal (12).

Some gazelles of the far east and llamas of Patagonia never feel the pang of thirst. They are so constituted that drink is unnecessary to them.

73,680 DAIRY CATTLE SHIPPED FROM STATE IN LAST YEAR

ANIMALS SENT TO 46 STATES AND TO OTHER COUNTRIES Shipments 2,192 Head More Than in Preceding Year. Report Shows

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin dairymen shipped 73,680 head of cattle out of the state during the twelve-month period from Oct. 1, 1926 to Oct. 1, 1927, according to A. O. Collettine, animal husbandry specialist at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. This was an increase of 2,192 cattle over shipments of the previous year. Most of these cattle have gone into sections of the country which have a fluid milk market and especially into those regions which are making relocations in their herds in an attempt to get rid of bovine tuberculosis, which Mr. Collettine thinks is quite a compliment to the high standard of Wisconsin dairy cattle.

Every state in the union imported Wisconsin dairy cattle during the twelve-month period except Nevada, and shipments were also made to South America, Spain, Cuba, Bermuda, Hawaii, Japan, Mexico and Canada.

ILLINOIS BEST BUYER Illinois imported the largest number of dairy cattle from Wisconsin taking 22,247 animals or 42 per cent of all the shipments made. New York was second with 5,557. New Jersey has been engaged in cleaning up her herds, says Mr. Collettine, and for that reason has been eager to obtain Wisconsin dairy cattle.

Other states which imported cattle from this state, and the number imported are as follows: Iowa 5,543; New Jersey, 4,558; Pennsylvania, 3,049; Minnesota, 3,025; Nebraska, 2,095; Indiana, 2,001; Maryland, 1,531; Ohio, 1,559; Michigan, 1,557; Connecticut, 1,250; California, 928.

Mr. Collettine does not believe that Wisconsin is stripping her herds, so that the grade of dairy cattle in the state will deteriorate. He believes that the trade with other states is an incentive to Wisconsin dairymen to maintain the high standards that have made Wisconsin famous for her dairy cattle, and that at the same time that she is helping to raise the standards in other states. She is benefiting herself, not only in the revenue obtained from such sales, but by improved standards at home.

He feels, however, that it is a matter to be regretted that all the eastern herdsmen do not make their own selections from among Wisconsin's cattle, rather than relying upon intermediary agencies. Such agencies are necessarily interested in buying as cheaply as possible in order that they may make a profit from eastern sales after paying the expense of transportation.

SHIP FIRST CAR BEETS FROM FOREST JUNCTION

Forest Junction—The first carload of sugar beets to be loaded at this station left here on Tuesday over the St. Paul road for the Mequon River Sugar company's factory at Green Bay.

The beets are being hauled with horses for a distance of over three miles from a twelve-acre tract between here and Brillion, which is expected to be the only production to be loaded here. This will amount to approximately four carloads. Farmers west of here in town Woodville and Harrison are shipping from Sherwood and Dundas, while those further south are making deliveries to Hilbert.

Agreeable weather has favored the harvest for the past few days. The quality of the crop compares very favorably with that of other years. The yield is said to average about ten tons per acre.

HARVEST MACHINERY KNELL FOR PUMPKIN

Royalton—The corn harvesting machine has marked the passing of the pumpkin from the corn fields, because the pumpkin vines became tangled in the machinery.

While the pumpkin has feed value for stock, it is not valuable enough to devote a whole field to use of the plant for pumpkin vines require space and lots of it. The old poem "When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fiddlers in the shock" has become out of date. One might drive for a whole day through this county without seeing a field of pumpkins and, as for the fiddler, it is in the silo, not the shock.

Soybeans Enrich Earth, Tests By Farmer Reveal

BY W. F. WINSEY Special Farm Writer

L. H. Sommer, manager of the Prof. William L. Crow farm, route 4, Appleton, has been experimenting with soy beans, sudan grass and alfalfa for the past summer. He concluded his soybean seed and as a result he not only has a big growth of roots but the roots are covered with nitrogen drawn from the air. Mr. Sommer found that an acre of these soybean plants removed under is equal in fertilizing effect to ten tons of barnyard manure, and that the feed, being rich in protein, is equal to two acres of ordinary clover. He filled his silo with ten acres of mixed corn and soybeans that made in a single season of the crop the highest percentage of protein in the crop.

Last spring Mr. Sommer sowed seven acres of soybeans with one acre of sudan grass. The soybeans were cut in the first week of September and the grass was cut in the second week. The mixture would make a fine silage for the cattle and horses.

Louisiana dairymen are going to get a running start in rehabilitating their losses from the flood. Members of the American Jersey Cattle Club have donated two carloads of this high quality registered stock to these flood sufferers. Picture shows some of the young stock shipped from Philadelphia.

NEW MONEY MARKET AGENT FOR STATE

James Gwin Is Named to Post by Wisconsin Markets Commissioner Vint

Madison—(AP)—Appointment of James Gwin, as honey marketing agent with the department of markets was announced Wednesday by Commissioner of Markets J. H. Vint. The honey marketing activities of the department of markets are in charge of A. W. Pomeroyne. The addition of Mr. Gwin to the staff was made pursuant to an act passed by the Legislature of 1927 providing for an extension of these activities.

The new law makes it mandatory upon the department of markets to assist the beekeepers of the state in building up their organization, pooling and improving their products, marketing honey and other bee products, and in general advancing the bee industry of the state.

Mr. Gwin has been a beekeeper for many years, is now President of the Wisconsin Beekeepers' Association and has held that office for five years. His term as president expires in December. Mr. Gwin will also assist C. D. Adams, the honey grading supervisor of the department in the grading of honey.

GOOD HAY CROP THIS YEAR IN WAUPACA-CO

Royalton—The hay crop this year in Waupaca-co has been exceptionally heavy and of good quality. This has enabled the farmers to leave a large acreage of clover to mature for seed. The prolonged rainy season however, made it impossible to cut and cure it, and that which is cut is in danger of molding and rotting. Several men in the county own cow hollers. Among them are John Eaton of this place, James Hume of Waupaca and Jack Gould of Clintonville.

In the southern part of the town of Royalton, the soil is a light sand. On some of these fields rye has been raised for over twenty years, until the soil had become completely exhausted. Within the past few years these farm owners have used a heavy dressing of lime and marl, the latter being obtained from Bear Lake and vicinity, and have sowed alfalfa. This year many of these farms that had become waste land were completely transformed by heavy crops of alfalfa. This will bring their land into condition for more general crops and likewise enable them to provide feed for large herds of stock.

Some of the farms on which this transformation has been wrought are owned by Ernest Thomack, Otto Redman, Aaron Palmer, Carl Borik, William Stillman, Hugo Krueger, Paul Claasson, Adolph Hintz, Louis Fredrick and John Claassons, Jr.

EXPECT 600 BOYS TO ENTER CONTEST

Entrants in Judging Tourney at Madison Outnumber Those of Last Year

Madison—(AP)—High school boys of Wisconsin who have learned to judge livestock and agricultural products in their agriculture courses in school and in 4-H clubs will exhibit their skill here Friday and Saturday at the state agricultural college.

More than 600 boys are expected for the judging tournaments. Prof. J. A. James, assistant dean of the college, expects the young judges to outnumber those who attended last year by two hundred.

The contests will be in scoring of milk, butter and cheese, selecting seed grains and field crops, judging of poultry and livestock, eggs, potatoes and apples, meats and dairy products. A contest in farm mechanics and a singing contest will help round out the program. The judging is divided into eight classes. The mechanics contest will center around the ability of the boys to repair belts and harness, solder and do simple tasks with machinery.

Teams representing 70 high schools were in last year's contests, and advance registrations indicate at least an equal number for this year. The singing contest will be open to individuals as well as groups. Friday night the boys will be served a banquet. At a mass meeting Saturday morning the results of the judging will be announced, older judges constituting juries of specialists to judge the young contestants. That afternoon will present what the boys will probably consider a highlight of their Madison trip. They will be taken to the Wisconsin-Purdue football game to sit in a block of seats especially reserved for them.

CAREW HAS AUCTION

Royalton—William P. Carew held an auction Saturday of personal property at his farm, on county trunk B, northwest of this village. Assemblyman Adam Schoder of Manawa, was auctioneer.

To get a pair of water, he saw a flashlight moving around in the chicken coop, and the chickens were squawking. He immediately started out to meet the thieves, but the latter scrambled over barb wire fences and plowed fields, leaving their bag of chickens hanging on the wire fence.

MOTHER!

A Child Doesn't Laugh and Play if Constipated

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is restless, cross, nervous, head bad, restlessness, doesn't eat heartily, full of colic or has sore throat or any other ailment, children's ailments, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will easily move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A "California" brand "candy" is suitable for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Here And There Among The Farmers--

BY W. F. WINSEY Special Farm Writer

T. H. Manning, route 2, Appleton, rescheduled his farm residence this fall, packed the air spaces between the studs with staves, built a new sun porch, redecorated the front rooms and repainted the outside. While this work was going on, Mrs. Manning prepared meals for the carpenters, painters, farm hands and six other men who belonged to a highway construction crew. This season, Mr. Manning raised a crop of first class corn. He filled his silo about a month ago with a part of the crop and is now husking the balance of the corn standing. After a few rows are husked, he cuts and binds the stalks with a machine. Later, he intends to run the stalks through a feed cutter which he drives with power from the engine of an automobile.

Frank Rehfeldt, route 4, Appleton, recently built a concrete silo, 12 by 42 feet, and finished filling it about a week ago with 10 acres of White Dent well ripened corn. He raised five acres of late cabbage from which he has sold $8 tons and expects to store the rest on his farm. His late cabbage, although of excellent quality, is yielding $ tons to the acre. The reason the yield is so much is that the crop suffered from dry weather early and from worms later in the season. The crop has been growing rapidly since the rains. This summer, Mr. Rehfeldt built a new milk house on his farm.

Henry C. Lilje, route 4, Appleton, is husking the best ears of a splendid crop of Golden Glow corn that he snapped out before putting the stalks and the balance of ears in the silo. From the corn he is husking, he is selling a considerable quantity to his neighbors for seed. He has a bumper crop of cabbage, about 12 tons to the acre. He will store as many tons of his crop as he can find room for on his farm.

J. P. Nussbaum, route 5, Appleton, is harvesting 3 acres of late cabbage that is going about 8 tons to the acre. The crop was injured by worms and the dry weather. Mr. Nussbaum filled his silo before the first frost with a very good quality of corn. His potatoes are yielding well.

Thus far this season, 50 cars of cabbage have been shipped from Center Valley and it is probable that a total of 45 will be shipped this month. Four cars will go out daily this week and in a day or so there will be a rush. Notwithstanding these shipments, a number of farmers are storing their crop on their farms or in the warehouse at the station. Cabbage heads are not as large as usual but they are solid and have the weight.

A committee of the members of the South Greenville Grange met Wednesday evening at the home of William Manning, route 1, Appleton, and considered the proposition of remodeling the grange hall in South Greenville. The committee decided to submit a sketch of a plan, drawn by George Schaefer, Master of the Grange, to the full membership at the regular meeting of the grange, Saturday evening. It is possible that a special meeting of the Grange may be called soon to take final action on the matter of remodeling the hall.

John Klueck, route 2, Appleton, raised good crops of hay, corn and potatoes this season, and put up a very useful building on his farm. The building is 20 by 40 feet and stands on a concrete foundation. It is serving as a wood shed, tool shed and garage. Mr. Klueck filled his silo before the first came. He snapped 100 bushels of ripened corn and is curing a considerable quantity of seed corn. He finished digging a field of Rural New Yorkers, Thursday that went 125 bushels to the acre. The quality is the best and the yield is quite good for this season. Mrs. Klueck has 69 wild Mallard ducks that she raised that look very fine in their winter coats, but the flock bothers some by running away and getting lost.

WAUPACA-CO PUPILS BUSY HARVESTING ANNUAL SPUD CROP

Delayed Ripening Gives Advantage to Dakota and Minnesota Growers

New London—The potato crop is just being harvested and will be ready for the market in about ten days, according to Fred J. La Marche of the New London Produce company. Very few potatoes are being marketed in the city this week, he stated, and very few are expected until after the harvest, which will be during the next two weeks. Potato digging in Waupaca and Outagamie-co's progresses at top speed, many schools of the rural districts having closed during last week to allow children to help on the farms at the annual job of "picking them up."

Youngsters from seven up to high school age are working in the fields. On large farms where potatoes are the main crop they could not be harvested without the help of the children, for once dug the potatoes must not be allowed to remain on the ground for any length of time, because of sun and wind which burns them, causing a green discoloration and night frost which spoils the flavor and cause rot.

Farmers pay a minimum wage being about $2.50 per day for school help. Boys all over town proudly display checks and compare notes relative to earning ability here on Saturday night.

CROP IS DELAYED

Most of the tubers which are being dug are either being hauled directly to the farmers' cellars or are being stored in pits, to await a favorable rise in the market. Potatoes are pouring in to the city markets from the Dakotas and Minnesota to the detriment of the Wisconsin crop, which, because of rains is fully two weeks behind the annual schedule.

Speaking of the quality of the potatoes, various dealers give a diversity of opinions. Manawa farmers and a number of farmers throughout Lebanon say that the crop runs small, averaging about four to the hill and these of mediocre quality and size.

erable quantity of seed corn. He finished digging a field of Rural New Yorkers, Thursday that went 125 bushels to the acre. The quality is the best and the yield is quite good for this season. Mrs. Klueck has 69 wild Mallard ducks that she raised that look very fine in their winter coats, but the flock bothers some by running away and getting lost.

Prof. William L. Crow, Appleton, recently sold his 120 acre farm, route 4, to Ray Shelly, Mattoon. Twenty-one head of cattle, four horses, seven hogs, farm machinery, 15 acres of standing corn, 20 tons of hay, 12 tons of soybeans and sudan grass, 1,000 bushels of oats and barley and a filled silo, were included in the sale.

PICK CHAMPION JERSEYS AT MEMPHIS DAIRY SHOW

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—National Dairy show judges here Tuesday selected the American grand champion Jersey bull for the coming year, the national senior jersey cow champion, and other prize animals.

Fern's Roebel Noble, bull owned by P. H. B. Frelinghusen of Twin Oaks farm, Morristown, N. J., won the grand championship from his own brother, Oxford's Wexford Noble.

A Tennessean, Herbert Farrell of Nashville, won the senior Jersey cow championship with his five-year-old Crieve Hall Blondes Segunda.

COSTUMES FOR PUPILS URGED

Pupils and students in the public schools and the University of the Philippines will go to classes garbed in inexpensive uniforms if the bill recently presented in the Philippine legislature is passed. The measure provides that the president of the university and the director of education shall prescribe uniforms of cotton or a similar texture, but never silk or more expensive clothing, and it provides suspension or expulsion from the class as penalties for violation.

Hortonia farmers are digging a bumper crop and are uniformly satisfied with their summer's work. The market price is none too satisfying, most farmers say, which accounts for the fact that few are being brought in to the shipping points. Buyers are paying from 90 cents to $1.25 here and in communities about here.

CHEESE FACTORY RUN ON 3-DAY WEEK BASIS

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—With a reduced flow of milk, combined with ready facilities for the cold storage of the milk at the farms at this season of the year, the cheese factory here of the School Grove Cooperative association began on Monday to operate on a three-day-per-week schedule. The factory will be shut down on Tuesdays and Fridays. Sunday operations of the plant, which prevailed during the summer months, were discontinued several weeks ago. The weekly shipment of cheese to the federation warehouse at Plymouth went forward on Tuesday as usual.

PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN IN FOG

Photographs showing every detail of the landscape with complete clearness have been taken in an opaque fog, according to J. Baird, the young Scotch inventor of television. He recently exhibited before the British Association in London such photographs and a camera, equipped with his television ray. The special photographic plates are sensitized to the infra-rays of the spectrum-rays—which are invisible to the human eye—and by this means the camera can record pictures through the thickest cloud. Baird predicts that photography and observation in the next war will be carried out by an aeroplane far above the clouds and hidden from the sight or hearing of the earth below.

Young Wife Lives On Thin Soup 5 Months

For months Mrs. Connor could not do her housework and had to live on soup. She says:

"The only thing I could eat for 5 months was soup. Anything else would blot me up with gas till I could hardly breathe. I lay awake nights and had to walk the floor sometimes. Nothing seemed to do me any good. Then I began to take Adlerika and the first bottle helped me. Now I eat almost everything, my stomach doesn't bother me and I sleep much better. Adlerika has made me a happy woman."—Mrs. A. J. Connor.

As gently and naturally as taking a drink of water, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowels, bringing quick relief from gas bloating, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation. The very FIRST dose of Adlerika often brings out astonishing amounts of old waste matter from the intestinal canal. This poisonous matter may have been in the intestines a long time, causing gas, headache, sleeplessness and many other symptoms. A treatment of just a FEW weeks with Adlerika often brings great permanent improvement in cases of so-called stomach trouble.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY:

Dr. H. Louis Shoub, New York, states: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing action, tends to check the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. J. Lancaster, a physician of over a quarter century's experience, says: "In the treatment of gastrointestinal disorders, Adlerika has no equal."

J. E. Fickett, writes: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. Carl Weschcke, graduate of Heidelberg University, Germany, first perfected Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser known to science with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements.

Many physicians recognize Adlerika as the one dependable remedy for gas, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation. Unlike most medicines it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika may bring out poisonous, gas-forming matter which you would never believe was in your system.

No matter what you have tried for the bowels and stomach, Adlerika will surprise you.

Sold by over 39,000 druggists.

MILWAUKEE—(P)—Dr. Herman N. Bundeson, Chicago, commissioner of health, will be the speaker at the dinner program of the 18th annual state meeting of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, Oct. 31, it was announced by Dr. Hoyt E. Dearholt, executive secretary of the W. A. T. U.

The annual meeting, to be held Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, will be attended by 200 seal sale managers, physicians, public health nurses, sanatorium superintendents, physicians and nurses, and sanatorium trustees.

The two-day program will include general sessions and round table discussion groups for nurses and social workers, seal sale managers, and sanatorium superintendents. At the general sessions such problems will be discussed as: health programs for school children; the sanatorium situation in Wisconsin; periodical physical examinations; and the various aspects of tuberculosis as a contagious disease.

Among the principal speakers on the program will be: Dr. A. W. Rogers, president of the State Medical Society; Dr. John Lapp, sociologist of Marquette University; Dr. A. W. Bauer, Racine health commissioner; Miss Maybelle Bush of the State Department of Public Instruction and M. T. Buckley, Washington county superintendent of schools.

HIGH SCHOOL EDITORS TO MEET IN MADISON

MADISON—(P)—More than 400 editors, staff members, and faculty supervisors of Wisconsin high school newspapers, magazines, and annuals will attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin High School Press association at the University of Wisconsin on Nov. 2 and 3.

The convention was formerly national in scope and entries for an annual make-up contest were filed from all over the middle-west. Last year the convention was limited to the student workers in high school publications in this state. This plan was found to be most effective and will be continued this year.

Three general convocations of the group will be held. A number of special sessions will be devoted to round table discussions for the various branches of staff workers and faculty advisors.

President Glenn Frank will address the convention at a banquet Friday evening, Nov. 25. Talks will also be given by members of the faculty in the School of Journalism.

Prof. Clinton R. Bush and Miss Helen M. Patterson of the School of Journalism staff are in charge of arrangements.

Oxford Giggles At Idea Of Tunney As Student

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON—Now that Monsieur Gene Tunney has won his little debate with Signor Jack Dempsey, Britons are tremendously interested in a rumor that has come across the ocean that the highbrow champ is thinking of going to college. One rumor says he is going to Notre Dame in Indiana. Another says, spurred on by his pal Jimmy Egan, who went to Oxford, that Gene, too, is dreaming of coming to the world-famous British university.

Wherefore, one clever newspaper writer takes up the idea and has considerable fun with it.

Firstly—As to Gene's relations with his fellow undergraduates. It is always a wholesome thing for a fellow; it takes some of the pride and bump out of him to be told to his face by his fellow under-grads that he is a fool—when he is one.

"GO ON, YOU TELL HIM"
But there is a drawback in Gene's case. If Gene made a fool of himself, who would tell him so? Not one lone under-grad, remembering that the American packs a punch in both mitts. Not two undergrads or three.

Perhaps a whole battalion of students would have to be mustered, armed with pick-axes and bats and muskets. They would surround Gene in a compact square. Then at the sign of a cheer leader they would shout in unison:

"Gene, you have been a fool today!"
Secondly: What would he study? Economics is suggested, because a man who has just earned a million iron men is or ought to be very much interested in economics. Or, perhaps, "Humane Letters," with ancient fighting as his special classic.

He could run all through classic Greek and Roman literature and could revel in the story of the fight Odysseus had with the bully who paid suit to the former's wife Penelope, when the hero was busy before the walls of Troy. Then there is the old yarn about Castor and Pollux and many more.

Thirdly: What games would he play?

Perhaps you don't get the importance of that to Britons? This true story will illustrate. Not long ago, when I put my daughter in an English school (the principal did not write me asking what studies I wanted her to pursue. Oh no, mere study was a minor matter). The weighty matter that was troubling the principal's brain was what games did I want her to play?

Now it is suggested that Gene would be no good in a rowing crew, unless they gave him two oars and let him scull with one man short in the team. At football he would be too rough, at cricket unthinkable, at running too heavy and slow.

They could not let him box. There would be too many broken noses and missing teeth and cauliflower ears in the young Adonises of Oxford. So it is about settled that if Gene comes to Oxford, they will let him work trying to win the championship with putting the shot.

And nobody has been found anxious to board him. In the first place, they think it would be too expensive to lodge a fellow who might want to stow three breakfasts under his belt for a mere light breakfast. And if the soup were salty, Gene would dare say so, whereas the ordinary student would be far too timid to tell the landlady about it to her face.

COUNTY CREWS START REPAIRS ON CONCRETE

Considerable repair work remains to be done on highways 10 and 41 in the county, according to A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner. Most of the work consists of filling cracks or small chuck holes with tar. This work was started this week by a repair crew and it is expected it will be completed within a week or two.

BADGER ADVERTISING TRAIN STARTS FEB. 7

Governor and 200 Others Will Spend 15 Days Advertising Wisconsin

MADISON—(P)—The Wisconsin special train, which will advertise Wisconsin to the Mississippi Valley, will begin its fifteen-day tour on Feb. 7, when it leaves Madison with a party of 200 men and women, including Governor Fred R. Zimmerman and other state officials.

The train, which will consist of Pullmans, observation car and several exhibit cars will visit the following twelve states in the course of its tour: Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Kentucky.

The exhibit cars will be equipped with end doors so that the crowds which visit the train at each stop can be handled without delay.

The tour extends as far south as San Antonio, Tex., and New Orleans, and the itinerary is so arranged that mid-day and evening stops will be featured with banquets, music and speeches and it is possible that a hand may accompany the party, according to A. Briggs, secretary and treasurer of the legislative committee which is arranging the trip.

One hundred thousand booklets, descriptive of Wisconsin's agricultural, industrial, educational and recreational resources are to be distributed along the route.

The butter and cheese exhibits alone will occupy an entire car, says Mr. Briggs, and Wisconsin butter and cheese will be served at banquets along the route.

Mr. Briggs says that it is possible a representative from every county board in the state will accompany the train, and that one county has already agreed to send three representatives.

All arrangements for the trip are in the hands of the legislative committee in charge, and Mr. Briggs is maintaining an office in the state capitol here to handle inquiries from persons interested in the tour.

SUSPEND AIR MAIL FROM ENGLAND TO FRANCE

Suspension of European air mail service especially from London to the continent has been announced by the English postal authorities. Services are suspended until early in the spring. "In looking over the air mail routes it is easy to see how much time they save," said Fred Felix Wetengel, acting postmaster of the Appleton office. "Sometimes the saving is but a few hours and again it means a day or even more when mail is carried across the English channel by plane and then dispatched to the various countries on the continent. Mail sent by rail and boat is much delayed by slow channel steamers and troubles encountered in rail transportation."

Air mail postage and regular international postage must both appear on the upper right hand corner of letters being carried by way of European air mail according to Mr. Wetengel. Letters for France, Belgium, Germany, and the Netherlands must bear four cents extra postage for air mail; for delivery in Norway, Sweden, and Denmark, six cents; Morocco, West Africa, seven cents; Senegal, French Guinea, Gambia, Belgian Congo and Sierra Leone, 24 cents. All letters must bear the special notation they are for air mail to the point of address.

Another fee of 12 cents is charged for express service on letters which corresponds to special delivery in this country.

CATS FURNISH FUR
Chicago—The increasing demand for furs within reach of the slender purse has brought a boom in the market for dog and cat skins, the National Association of the Fur Industry reports. Even goat skins are used. They are sheared and stenciled into imitation leopard. And gray rats are made into "baby seal."

JACK LOCKWILL, THE LION TAMER

"Much obliged to ye for stoppin' 'em so slick, young feller," said the officer to Jack. "You're a pretty nifty lad." "He ought to be," put in one of the others. "He's the lion tamer of the circus." "Well, he tamed these two cubs pretty quick," chuckled the deputy-sheriff, "and now I'm going to see they're locked up in their cage." He marched his prisoners away.

Conducted by one of the circus hands, a messenger boy brought Lockwill a telegram. It was signed by Brick Judge. Jack whistled queerly when he had read it.

The time for Jack to go into the lion's cage drew near. From the wardrobe of the circus, he had been provided with a full-dress suit that fitted him very well. The cage-wagons of both King Leo and Snarleyow were rolled into the main ring. The younger lion snapped and snarled, and, true to his training, the older one began to roar in a bloodcurdling way. (To Be Continued)

LABOR NOT ONLY WEALTH PRODUCER, ROTARIANS TOLD
A. G. Meating, County School Head, Talks on Essentials of Progress

Kaukauna—A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, spoke on the Essentials of Progress at the regular weekly luncheon of the Kaukauna Rotary club held at the Legion building Wednesday noon.

"Our age is the century wonderful," Mr. Meating told the Rotarians. "The increase of comforts and conveniences through tools has contrived largely to make our era what it is. Within the last few years man has made more progress through the locomotive and the steamship than during the previous thousands of years. Locomotives have brought us treasures from distant states and have served as exchange agencies and steam ships have laid out our feet the luxuries and necessities from foreign climes. The loom has multiplied garments of cotton, wool and silk. The printing press has made books not only beautiful but low in price. Always the Roman emperors could ride in their chariots but today the poor man rides in a palace car. Once upon a time the workingman's walls are covered with reproductions of the great masters. Today a laborer who has five dollars a day enjoys conveniences that Queen Elizabeth did not have in Kenilworth castle. Men of ten speak of the "good old times," but our fathers' times were the "bad old times and ours are the "good, new times." Objections to progress looks terribly ridiculous after the new has been established.

"A man dies today and a boy was born. Wise men are not intent on what the man left behind but upon how the boy may be trained to do it. Progress must be accomplished. Even death cannot hinder progress. Abraham Lincoln once said: "Back of every great tool, art, law and liberty, stands a great man; therefore the real business of this Republic is the manufacture of quality men. We know that every great effect must have its cause. The way to make the nation rich and happy is to grow men and women who have thoughts, high thoughts, noble thoughts and who can and will put these thoughts into the books they write, the pictures they paint, into the laws they make and into the lives they live. Develop strong men and a nation will soon have everything its people need."

"As we study conditions about us today we find that much of the discontent in the world is caused by erroneous doctrines of labor. It has been affirmed that all wealth is produced by labor. This is the doctrine of Karl Marx and it has filtered down to the minds of the people on two continents. Labor is not the producer of all wealth. Take the brain power that organizes labor and multiplies its capacity to produce thirty, some sixty, and some hundred fold. It is the source of value and wealth? Take the brain power that invents and lays hold of the forces of nature and harnesses them to the chariots of commerce and civilization. Is it not a producer of wealth? Take trustworthiness, a purely moral quality and has it not a distinct moral value? Two men in a shop may be equally industrious but one is more trustworthy than the other, and he is the one who is chosen for the position of responsibility. The fact that he can be relied upon is an element of value, but it was not produced by labor."

"Labor is not the creator of all wealth. Such claims will not bear the light. Such a doctrine develops a wrong attitude toward work and stirs up discontent. Such a doctrine cannot be displaced too soon and be succeeded by a saner doctrine that, one must give service for value received. Don't say a thing unless it be done. Twenty years hence such machines may displace our autos and solve the traffic problems."

"Capital and labor are both strong arms of civilization. We must have both to reach the highest stage of civilization and prosperity. Prosperity is the granary of capital and labor. Prosperity is a granary that can be filled by exerting energy when all workers are beginning in their contributions, large or small. No man needs sympathy because he has to work. There is no room in our healthy American life for the man or woman who seeks to shirk the duties and the responsibilities which life ought to bring. Given a better training in home and school, our young people can be brought to realize that they owe a duty of service to society that only can be met by giving a full return of their ability. Progress of the individual and of society is dependent upon a spirit of cooperative helpfulness and this spirit would soon erase all trace of rank or class."

EVERY STUDENT IN HIGH SCHOOL PUTS MONEY IN H. S. BANK

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school students broke another thrift record on Tuesday when every student in the school deposited money in the school bank. To make a 100 per cent record. Previous to this 97 per cent had been the best record. The money deposited by the students on Tuesday amounted to $87.03.

Principal Olin G. Dwyer of the high school reminded the students that the amount of money deposited in the bank was not so important as the number of students forming the habit of depositing money regularly in the bank.

LINDBERGH'S BOOK PUT IN LIBRARY

Several New Volumes Placed on Shelves of Kaukauna Institution

Kaukauna—Many new volumes have been placed in circulation at the Kaukauna Free Public library. Included among these is "We," by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. This story is said to have been written in long hand by "Lindy" upon his return to the United States. It gives an interesting account of his experiences while flying alone across the Atlantic.

Another interesting book is "Maze De La Roche's Journal." This is the prize story of the year selected by the Atlantic Monthly magazine. The author received $10,000 for writing this story which was selected out of several thousand written in world wide competition. The author is a Canadian and the story is about Canada and Canadians.

Five volumes of Carpenter's travel books have been received at the library. They are: "Alaska, Our Northern Wonderland," "From Cairo to Kismu," "Java and the East Indies," "Australia," and "Tail of the Hemisphere."

Patrons of the library do not use the telephone enough, Miss Kathryn Hornbush, librarian, said Wednesday. Many times a trip to the library for a book that doesn't happen to be in could be saved if the telephone were used. Books may also be reserved if requested over telephone and patrons' names will be placed on the waiting lists for books that are out.

ZWICK WINDS UP HIS TRAINING FOR BATTLE

Kaukauna—Phil Zwick, Kaukauna boxer, who meets Joey Thomas of Oshkosh on Friday night at the Appleton armory, had a hard workout at the Legion gym on Wednesday afternoon. He opened his training with punching the bags, skipping rope shadow boxing and then finished off with two rounds in the ring with Harold Engerson, a local boy. Although Engerson outweighed Zwick by far the youngster outpointed the big man and proved exceedingly clever. Zwick did not expect to do much after his work on Wednesday until the song rings on Friday night. He is in the best of condition.

Another former Kaukauna boxer, Washie Hendricks also trained out at the Legion gym. He spent the afternoon shadow boxing, skipping rope and punching the bags. Washie looked better Wednesday afternoon than any time since he has started fighting. He is scheduled to meet Lyons in a battle at St. Paul on Friday night. Hendricks is making his home in Appleton now but complains that he can't find anyone in the city who will work out with him.

Take a plain, pleasant-tasting tablet which the smallest drug store is never without. Pappe's Cold Compound is what they call it. Harmless as it is, it will knock the worst cold so quickly you'll think it was luck the first time.

A stubborn, chronic cold is broken-up the same way; it just takes a little longer.

OLD FOLKS SAY DOCTOR CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1832, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach, and other indispositions that result from constipation was cured by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

THE NEGLECTED PAINT CAN

RIGHT in front of him lay a neglected paint can. Frederick Walton found himself aimlessly kneading the dry paint encrusted on the can. Eureka! He had made a great discovery; the linseed oil in the paint, converted into an elastic state by oxidation, made an ideal foundation for an entirely new type of floor covering!

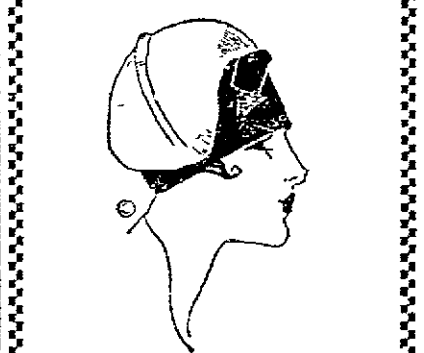

In 1863 he patented his new product and christened it "Linoleum"—(from "linum"—flax; and "oleum"—oil; for linseed oil, the chief ingredient of the new floor covering is obtained from the flaxseed).

Joseph Wild brought Frederick Walton to the U.S.A., to supervise the manufacture of the first linoleum in America—Wild's Linoleum.

To this day, Wild's has remained the first linoleum in America—first in improvements, first in wearing quality, first in style. Recently a great variety of new Wild patterns have been introduced. Come in and see them.
